My mother can't agree on anything. She controls me and my phone every day. She is carefully for me. I can't walking after school with my boyfriend, because she say "He's not your person and he is bad and silly boy" and I don't think so too. I hate her anxiety and controlling. I want that she stop her control and see the problems easy. Please give me a great advice.

Yesterday I received a message. It was a message from an unknown user in a texting app, Telegram, to be specific. It wasn't often when some stranger texted me, so of course I felt suspicious of the stranger's identity and intentions. The message I've received just read: "Hello".

After moments of hesitation, I decided to text to the mysterious user back in attempt to identify who they were and what they wanted from me. Even if I was respectful and friendly towards them, I didn't trust them, not even a little bit. Their answer to my questions was that they were just searching in random users until they've come across mine and had decided to befriend with me. Reading their response, I've felt the earlier distrust towards them slowly dissipating, but a part of me remained skeptic, since they could be lying.

However, I played along, and over a short time of our conversation, I grew fond of this stranger—that now was my friend. I found out that she's a teenage girl like me and realized we have many things in common. I will never regret my choice to "investigate" about this person, instead of ignoring and blocking her.

C. Every person have their admire person. It must be celebrity, family member or one of the friends. But it's not always about only admire that person, some people try to be as them, to be better side. For me, my favourite person that I take for better example is singer, Kim Namjoon. He's leader of very famous boyband named BTS. They're really talented people. About history, they did record by having most views on MV in 24 hours. Nowadays, their views over 1 billion. I'm fan of them since 2018. This boyband sings for their fan to love yourself. They even have album named "Love Yourself"

Writing

part 2

Isn't it amazing? By the way, this album one of my favourite album ever. If I keep going deep about group, they're formed at 2013. They literally made history for world. They also performend at Grammy 2021.

About Kim Namjoon, I admire him because he's one of the wonderful person ever. I learned from him a lot things. He gives to fans motivates, smart words and advices. I try to be shiny and grateful as him.

At the same he makes best music. Song "Come back to me" is my favourite song that always ~~at~~ repeat. It sings about how to be brave and go through your problems. What's more, he helps me to practice my english.

Since he don't speak my native language, he speaks only english and korean. So I just listen his english talks. From 2018, past so many years, but he's still my favourite member. I hope boyband will keep being healthy and happy, so we, fans can watch their content and get example from them.

Yesterday I received a message. It was from my old friend. It said in the message - "Hi my old friend, how are you doing? I was wondering if we could meet up for old times sake." I was happy and phone called him. We talked for hours and eventually we decided to meet up at the old park where we used to play and hangout. I started my car and drove there for hours since I moved to a long distance house. When I came there I didn't see him so I decided to buy a snack. After some minutes he came. When I saw him I couldn't recognise and looked at him thinking if it was him or not. Then he yelled my name. I came to him and greeted him. We talked about our personal lives. I had nostalgia remembering the old times when we were little. After that we said our goodbyes and went our ways.

Shopping online is a very easy way to save your time. Shopping from home in recent years has become increasingly popular. Internet has made the world accessible and easier. On the other hand, going to the shop and by new product is very different. Online shopping can impact on local business. People will not go to the shopping by themselves and can not test the product by personal hands. And you can take a advice from the internet or the people who know about product.
